

I sang this at my wife Barbara's memorial service October 9, 2021

The tune: "My First Love Song"

From The Roar of the Greasepaint, the Smell of the Crowd

by Anthony Newly and Leslie Bricusse

Click here for the original cast version

Click here for piano accompaniment

My Last Love Song

My last love song.
This is my last love song,
I just have to sing to you one more time.
I'm not clever.
I could never ever think of
Phrases worthy of you.
Each endeavor
That I made to sing your praises
Didn't sound as it ought to.
But I loved you.
I really loved you,
And I loved the way that I used to
Bring my love songs
And sing my love songs
To you.

My last love song.
It's not my last love song,
For I know you'll be there when I arrive,
Arms wide open,
Ready to embrace and welcome me
To His paradise.
And forever
I'll have endless, blessed days
To write new words, as I'll want to.
For I love you.
I'll always love you,
And I'll love the way now I can't to
Bring my love songs
And sing my love songs
To you.

I'll bring my love songs
And sing my love songs
To you.

Robert D. Smith